GOD Save the KING.

Whitehall, November 10.

His Highneſs the Prince of Orange, with the Right Honourable Horatio Walpole, Eſq; whom his Majeſty had ſent to attend his Highneſs in his Paſſage to England, having embarked at Helvoetſluys on board the Fubbs Yacht, as did his Retinue on that and two others of his Majeſty's Yachts, took the Advantage of the firſt Wind that ſerved, and ſet Sail from thence on Sunday the 4th Inſtant in the Morning, and on Wedneſday the 7th came up the River. Sir Clement Cottrell, Maſter of the Ceremonies, accompanied by M. Hop, Envoy Extraordinary from the States General, went down in the King's Barges to meet his Highneſs at Greenwich, to make him his Majeſty's firſt Compliment on his Arrival, and to conduct him from thence. Landing at the Tower, his Highneſs was received by Colonel Williamſon, the Deputy-Lieutenant: Upon the Stairs of the Wharf his Highneſs was met by the Right Honourable the Lord Lovelace, who made him a Compliment from the King. From thence his Highneſs proceeded to Somerſet-Houſe in the King's Coach, in which he was attended by the Lord Lovelace, Sir Clement Cottrell, and M. Hop, his Retinue following in Coaches of Privy-Counſellours and other Peers. Entring Somerſet-Houſe, the Lord Lovelace put him in Poſſeſſion of it and took his Leave. Soon after came the Right Honourable the Lord Harvey, Vice Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold, with his Majeſty's Compliment of Welcome; as did alſo the Honourable Mr. Coke, the Queen's Vice Chamberlain, with her Majeſty's Compliment; the Right Honourable the Lord Baltimore, Lord of the Bedchamber to the Prince of Wales, with his Royal Highneſs's Compliment; Stephen Poyntz, Eſq; Governour to the Duke, with his Royal Highneſs's Compliment; and the three Gentlemen Uſhers of the Princeſs Royal, and of the Princeſſes Amelia and Caroline, with their reſpective Compliments, and thoſe of the Princeſſes Mary and Louiſa. After Dinner, ſeveral Perſons of chief Rank and Quality, and a great many Gentlemen, paid their Compliments to his Highneſs, being preſented to him by the Maſter of the Ceremonies. His Highneſs, at his coming to Somerſet-Houſe, ſent two of his chief Gentlemen to make his Compliments to the King and Queen, and ask Leave to wait upon their Majeſties when they ſhould be pleaſed to appoint. Thurſday Morning the 8th Inſtant, moſt of the foreign Envoys and Reſidents at this Court, were preſented to his Highneſs by the Maſter of the Ceremonies, as were alſo a very great Number of the Nobility and Gentry. At One a-Clock, the Time appointed by his Majeſty, his Highneſs proceeded to St. James's, attended by Sir Clement Cottrell, in a Coach of his Majeſty's, his Highneſs's Retinue following in the Coaches of ſeveral Peers. At his alighting in the Court, his Highneſs was received by the King's Gentleman Uſher in Waiting; at the Head of the Stairs by his Grace the Duke of Grafton, Lord Chamberlain, and the Lord Harvey, Vice Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold; and being come to the King's Bedchamber, was conducted by the Right Honourable the Lord Hinton, Lord of the Bedchamber in waiting, to the King's Cloſet. His Highneſs was re-conducted by the ſame Perſons to the Queen's Apartment; at the Entrance of which he was received by the Right Honourable the Earl of Grantham, Lord Chamberlain, and the Honourable Mr. Coke Vice-Chamberlain to Her Majeſty, preceeded by Her Majeſty's Gentleman-Uſher: Having made his Viſit to her Majeſty, the Earl of Grantham attended his Highneſs to the Prince of Wales's Apartment, where he was received by his Royal Highneſs's Servants, and introduced to his Royal Highneſs by the Marqueſs of Carnarvon, Lord of his Bedchamber in Waiting; from thence his Highneſs was attended to the Duke's Apartment by the Earl of Grantham, and was introduced to his Royal Highneſs by Mr. Poyntz his Governour; Sir Clement Cottrell, Maſter of the Ceremonies, attending his Highneſs in all Places Then his Highneſs went to the Queen's Drawing-Room, where were their Majeſties and all the Royal Family. His Highneſs returned to Somerſet-Houſe to Dinner. In the Evening Count Kinsky, the Imperial Ambaſſadour, who the Day before had ſent to have an Hour appointed him, made a Viſit to his Highneſs; which being over,
